

Julie A. Hill

Undergraduate student at Brigham Young University

Undergraduate Degree: Undeclared

This summer I am a member of the Contaminant Monitoring team here at ESH-20. As a team, we sample foodstuffs such as produce, soil, and wildlife from surrounding areas, which we take back to the lab and prepare for testing. After the samples have been tested for harmful contaminants, we then process and publish the data. I will also be aiding other teams in their fieldwork this summer in my endeavor to gain as much field experience as possible.

I like to be active and have a variety of interests. I enjoy gardening, hiking, reading, crocheting, running, driving (I know it sounds weird), listening to music, and spending time with friends and family.